ARGUMENTS HAVE BEEN STARTED IN THE HYDE CASE

By Associated Press.

By Judge Latshaw's instructions to the jury the accused physician either must be found guilty of first degree murder, which is punishable by death, or life imprisonment, or be acquitted.

None of the testimony admitted during the trial was withdrawn by the court from the jury. All the issues of collateral with the alleged killing of Colonel Swope were admitted. Attention was also directed by the court to the fact that all the evidence against Hyde is circumstantial. Three more speeches will be made by each side before the case is finally given to the jury.

SEIZES CARS UNTIL DELINQUENT TAXES ARE PAID

By Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., May 11.—County Treasurer Matt Gormley today forced the Seattle Electric company, operating the principal street car system in this city to pay $167,000 in delinquent taxes by seizing 125 of the company's cars but by the act invalidated the county's claim of 15 per cent and interest as the penalty provided by law, and lost to the county $29,000. The company made no effort to prevent the seizure and it was only after the treasurer had taken charge of the cars, and tied up three lines that one official of the company offered a check for the amount of taxes and cost of restraint proceedings.

supreme court. Metcalf will appear before the house committee of industrial arts on expositions on behalf of San Francisco tomorrow.

At the dinner President Taft declared he could see no reason why a double celebration for the completion of the Panama canal should not be held in this country in 1915.

"A celebration at San Francisco on the Pacific coast and a celebration at some designated point on the Atlantic coast."

The Californians cheered the president when he said if the congress should decide but one celebration should be held, "Then unreservedly I say San Francisco is the logical place and should be chosen."

Polish Patriot Fought His Way to the South With His Independent Legion and Died on the Battlefield.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—President Taft paid a tribute to the foreign soldiers who helped the United States win independence. He attended the unveiling of the statues of Pulaski and Kosciuszko, the former at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and the latter at Lafayette square. Taft delivered the eulogy at the Pulaski statue, while Secretary Dickinson was the principal speaker at the Kosciuszko ceremonies.

The president said in part: "It is idle to speculate what might have happened in the war of the revolution had we not been assisted by foreign nations and subjects from foreign countries. It is sufficient to us that those who assisted us in that struggle contributed materially to our success,

Hence to Lafayette, to Rochambeau, DeKalb, Pulaski, Kosciuszko and others it is fitting that there should be erected monuments that it may be understood that America is grateful and holds the memory of those who came here in the hour of danger and trouble.

"When Count Casimer Pulaski came here the American army practically had no cavalry and with the permission of Washington and with a vote of congress, to him was turned over the question of the organization of the cavalry forces.

"Subsequently on organizing the independent legion known as 'Pulaski's legion,' he fought his way from the north to the south until finally after taking part in the campaign about Charleston, he lost his life in the charge and siege of Savannah."

TWO MONUMENTS ARE DEDICATED TO MEMORY OF POLISH PATRIOTS

Men Who Fought for Liberty Have Fitting Tribute Paid to Their Memories

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—Two monuments to the memory and deeds of Pulaski and Kosciuszko, the Polish heroes, both of whom fought and one of whom died that liberty in America might live, were dedicated here today. The time of the dedications were so arranged that President Taft could attend each.

While the president made the principal address at the unveiling of the monument to Pulaski, which stands in the triangle at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, Secretary of War Dickinson was making the principal address at the Kosciuszko statue in Lafayette park opposite the white house, and J. F. Smulski, of the Polish National alliance made an address in Polish.

The monument to Pulaski was erected by an act of congress, but the statue to Kosciuszko is the gift to the nation from the Polish National alliance and other organizations of Poles who have made their homes in the free republic for which their distinguished countrymen fought.

There was a double significance to the unveiling of the monument to Kosciuszko, for it marked the opening here tomorrow of the first national Polish congress to attend which thousands of Poles from all over the United States have come.

The purpose of the congress is to discuss in all its phases the condition of the Polish nation, to acquire familiarity with the needs of the Polish national life and find ways and means of fulfilling them.

The ceremonies which preceded the dedication of the statues were long planned and very elaborate. A military parade in which all the regular troops stationed at Fort Meyer as well as the national guard of the District of Columbia, marched, and was one of the features. Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., was in command.

In the heart of the busier section of the city the monument to Pulaski stands fourteen feet from the sidewalk in a triangular green,

In the saddle of a charger is mounted the figure of the hero in which he won command of a brigade of Washington's cavalry for his gallant conduct at the Brandywine.

Pulaski always wore the uniform of his beloved fatherland and it clothed his breast through three years of valiant and brave fighting and hardships on American soil until he fell at the siege of Savannah, in 1779, and died on the United States brig of war Waspi, in the harbor, two days after.

The sculptor, Chodzinski, gathered material for his work in Paris, Berlin and parts of Poland and secured from the descendants of Pulaski a life size painting of the hero mounted on a horse, done by Pulaski's sister.

In Lafayette park, a beautiful shaded square across Pennsylvania avenue, from the white house, the monument to Kosciuszko, with the exception of one completes the set of five planned there.

The others are to General Lafayette and Count Rochambeau who commanded the French allies at Yorktown. On the remaining corner will be erected the statue of Baron Von Steuben. An immense statue of General Andrew Jackson is in the center of the park.

Kosciuszko is represented in the figure as the hero of two hemispheres, and his countrymen love to refer to him. A map of the United States with the American eagle guarding, is in front of the pedestal. On the other side is the outline of Europe and Asia attacked by the snake of despotism with the Polish eagle fighting in defense.

A Polish soldier, wounded and falling, is being defended by a Polish farmer with a scythe. Opposite, an American soldier is cutting the shackles of an American farmer which bind him to the foreign yoke.

Mounted on the pedestal is the statue of Kosciuszko, a map of West Point on one hand, the other on his sword.
